Hamzeh's work is instantly recognisable through his fusion of Arabic calligraphy and graffiti, expressed through bold mixed-media compositions that blur the line between tradition and modernity. Rooted in formal training with calligraphy masters through which he learned classical scripts. Hamzeh ultimately created his own Arabic graffiti font, FHV, to give calligraphy a distinctly modern and personal twist. His pieces often repeat a single word or phrase to reinforce meaning, while the layered, sculptural forms of his lettering generate a striking three-dimensional effect that draws viewers into the work.

Foad Hamzeh's signature technique is the use of dripping paint and dynamic splashes. This visual language of wet paint serves as a metaphor for motion through time, fluidity, and the lasting resonance of the message embedded within each piece. As he explores new artistic strategies to highlight the individuality of each letter, the presence of wet paint becomes a powerful affirmation that Arabic—and the culture it embodies—remains vibrant, evolving, and alive.
